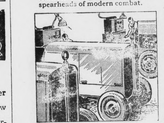
On Every Front

. . . General Electric equipment is fighting with America's land army. From the rolling kitchen to the front line, electricity works for victory.

1. In the factory electricity stitches the seams of tank armor, and on the battlefield it controls the operation of these spearheads of modern combat.

2. In induction center and field hospital, the X ray helps safeguard the health of our fighting men, aiding in the diagnosis and treatment of disease.



3. Far from the usual power sources, mobile power plants supply electricity for 800,000,000 candlepower searchlights by which a newspaper can be read 12 miles away.

4. Blitz war requires swift communications! On the soldier's back, in field and sky, radio co-ordinates the striking force of American army planes, ships and tanks.

General Electric believes that its first duty as a good citizen is to be a good soldier.

Women at War

Betsy

The little girl tugged gently at her mother's sleeve

"Now, Mother!" she asked, "Now can't we write my letter?"

"Why, of course, Betsy," Mrs. Carson grinned. "Are you going to write it or am I?"

"Well," Betsy said, "Maybe you'd better kind of say it to me. Only I'd love to write it."

"All right, then, Miss Carson, take a letter," her mother said, walking slowly up and down the room. "Ready? 'Dear Mr. Morgenthau: The way I save money for War is to steer all the money I would have spent for candy into War Stamps. She is so keen about buying War Stamps that I know all the money I might have paid to someone else for doing the jobs will go toward Victory when paid to her.'

"Now make a list, Betsy. Windows washed, 60 cents. Apples picked from under the tree, 25 cents. Emptied trash cans, 4 cents. Sold stray horse from pasture, 15 cents. Sold scraps of spoiled film to children for sunbathing, at one cent a yard, 20 cents. Total, $1.24. Yours helpfully, I hope,'—and then I'll sign it at the bottom."

Betsy was pulling like a grampus from her labors. The tall, painstaking letters tottered bravely across the sheet of paper. Gravely Mrs. Carson took the pen to sign.

"Mother, would it be the proper etiquette if I signed it too?"

"Perfectly proper, I think," Mrs. Carson said without a smile, and handed the pen back to Betsy.

What's Cookin' Is Important!

1. Buy Carefully

Be sure to get all the good out of the foods you buy. Take advantage of bargains and special values. Canned foods are good, healthful, and economical. Lose expensive cuts of meat are often as highly nutritious as expensive cuts.

2. Plan Carefully

Serve vegetables, meat, eggs, milk, bread and cereals. Don't waste precious vitamins and minerals. Use your range for waterless cooking of vegetables, and the low temperature method for roasting, stewing and braising.

3. Conserve

Place cooking utensils on units before turning switch; turn off when cooking is complete. After water starts to boil, turn the unit down to low to keep boiling lively. Take advantage of all your range's time and electricity-saving.

MRS. ROYAL M. COLEMAN COLEMAN — REYNOLDS

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Herbert Reynolds, this county, was decorated with native greens and arrangements of fall flowers and was lighted throughout by candles for the wedding at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, November 25th, of their daughter, Miss Cleo Reynolds, to Mr. Royal Martin Coleman, Lynchburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Royal Judson Coleman, of Appomatox.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. Preston Brown, pastor of Liberty Chapel Baptist Church, of which the bride is a member. Music for the occasion was provided by Miss Bessie Gunter, at the piano, and Mrs. Raymond Martin, aunt of the groom, who sang, I Love You Truly, and Oh, Sweet Mystery of Life. Miss Gunter played Liebestraum by Franz Liszt; The Rosary, Indian Love Call and other typical nuptial music.

The mantel which served as a background for the wedding party was banked with white chrysanthemums against lace, like greens and candles in gothic arrangements were burning. The bride was given in marriage by her father and Corporal Tarvis Russell Martin, U. S. Army, was his cousin's best man.

Mrs. Russell Martin, in soldier blue wool wearing red roses at the shoulder, was her sister's only attendant.

The bride was in cream-white feather weight flannel and her flow ers were white orchids. Later she changed to a costume of navy and soldier blue for their wedding trip. On their return she will resume her teaching position at Pamplin high school and he will return to his duties in Lynchburg.

The tiered wedding cake was cut at the informal reception which followed the ceremony. Punch, cakes in wedding design and other wedding refreshments were served. Mrs. Curl Martin, Mrs. Percy Reynolds and Miss Gladys Coleman, all of Lynchburg assisted Mrs. Reynolds in the care of her guests.

Only members of the two families and a few close friends attended the wedding.

TO OUR SAVINGS DEPOSITORS

It has become necessary for us to reduce the interest rate paid on Savings Deposits and Time Certificate of Deposit to 1 % per annum, effective January 1st, 1943.

This reduction in interest is due to the abnormally low rate of interest we are now receiving from U. S. Government bonds and the other high grade securities in which our funds are invested. The demand for loans, which in the past was one of our important sources of income, has shown a steady decline for a number of years. There seems to be no evidence of an increase in this demand over the visible future.

It has been and will continue to be our policy to pay the highest rate of interest consistent with safety and sound banking principles.

We appreciate the favor you have shown us by depositing your money in our Savings Department and we assure you that it is our constant purpose to merit your patronage and confidence.

Types of Mahogany

Mahogany is of three distinct types. West Indian mahogany is the hardest, heaviest and most closely grained. It also has the richest and darkest natural coloring. Tropical mahogany is not so rich in color or of as close grain. The third variety is African wood. It is lighter in color and weight than the others and is singularly free from defects.

General and Poet

In the early days of its existence the Spartans, being badly in need of a general, sent to Athens for one. The Athenians, not wishing to give them too good a one, sent them a gouty schoolmaster, one Tyrtaeus, as being the most unlikely person on earth for the task. But Tyrtaeus was a poet and by his poetry, which took a martial turn, he so animated his new countrymen that he turned out a good general after all.

DANGER OF OPTIMISM

The report of planes that many valuable ships of the French Navy have not scuttled at Toulon, is another example of the dangers of over-optimism. From the first news of the Toulon incident, our public jumped to the hasty conclusion that Hitler would not have use of any French ships.

Other possibilities of excessive optimism are the positions of Spain and Turkey, and the current belief that Italy is about done for.

WASTED ENERGY

(From An Exchange)

A Texas politician at Fort Worth recently filed a report of his expenditures during his campaign for Congress. Here is what he showed:

Lost 1147 hours sleep thinking about the election; lost two front teeth and a lot of hair in a personal encounter with an opponent; donated a beef, four pigs and five sheep to a community barbecue, gave away two pairs of suspenders, four calico dresses, $5.10 in cash and thirteen baby rattles; cropped 132 acres of cotton; kissed 126 babies; kindled 14 kitchen fires, put up two stoves; walked 4,974 miles, shook hands with 9,508 persons; told 10,101 lies; talked enough to make in print 893 volumes; attended 16 revival meetings and was baptized four times by immersion and twice in other ways; contributed $50 to foreign missions, made love to nine grass widows; spent $106 for box suppers; hugged 40 old maids; got bitten 37 times, and WAS DEFEATED!
